Integrated Logistic Support (ILS) Management Guide

This guideline provides updated global, evidence-informed recommendations on the intake of free sugars to reduce the risk of NCDs in adults and children, with a particular focus on the prevention and control of unhealthy weight gain and dental caries. The recommendations in this guideline can be used by policy-makers and programme managers to assess current intake levels of free sugars in their countries relative to a benchmark. They can also be used to develop measures to decrease intake of free sugars, where necessary, through a range of public health interventions. Examples of such interventions and measures that are already being implemented by countries include food and nutrition labelling, consumer education, regulation of marketing of food and non-alcoholic beverages that are high in free sugars, and fiscal policies targeting foods and beverages that are high in free sugars. This guideline should be used in conjunction with other nutrient guidelines and dietary goals, in particular those related to fats and fatty acids (including saturated fatty acids and trans-fatty acids), to guide development of effective public health nutrition policies and programmes to promote a healthy diet.

Integrated Logistic Support (ILS) Management Guide

Logistics Support Analysis A Complete Guide - 2021 Edition.

Integrated Logistic Support (ILS) Procedural Guide

Following three successful editions, the fourth edition of this book provides concise, updated guidance and procedures for providing logistical support to a deployed army on 21st-century battlefields.

Logistics Support Analysis A Complete Guide - 2020 Edition

This Integrated Logistic Support Implementation Guide for DOD Systems and Equipments is designed to assist program managers in government and industry in the implementation of that policy contained in DOD Directive 4100.35. In discussion of the application of the ILS concept to various types of acquisition, description of ILS techniques and the relationship of ILS to other disciplines, this guide facilitates improved communications between government and industry program managers, design, procurement, and financial managers, and between various agencies within the government. The guide is organized to make it useful for program managers involved in the detailed planning and management of logistic support, and at the same time to be a valuable reference source for the non-specialist who needs assistance on specific problems with respect to logistics support and its interfaces.

Performance Based Logistics: A Program Manager's Product Support Guide

Since the publication of first edition by the end of 2016, the positive feedback that I have received in connection with this book has been wide and constant. That has provided me with great satisfaction, as my wish was to bring the theory and practice of integrated logistics support closer to professionals interested in the discipline. The last years have witnessed the eclosion of the fourth industrial revolution, also known as Industry 4.0, which is transforming activities in all industrial sectors. Logistics is no exception and hence it is becoming more frequent to talk about Logistics 4.0. This second edition attempts to address how the field of logistics is being transformed. Consequently, in addition to correcting a few errors detected in the first edition, four new chapters have been added. First, a chapter on technology refreshment programs because they enable, together with performance-based logistics, the reduction of the capabilities gap that systems suffer during their operational lives. Second, a chapter on Industry 4.0, addressing the main goals and enabling technologies of the fourth industrial revolution, together with its main risks and challenges. Third, a chapter on Logistics 4.0, or how logistics is now shaped in the frame of the fourth industrial revolution. Finally, a chapter on the perils faced by logistics engineers, who wish to stay in the state of the art in the discipline. I hope that these new chapters reinforce the contents of the book and further help those who wish to attain a good command of the discipline of integrated logistics support.

The recommendations in this guideline are intended for a wide audience including policy-makers their expert advisers and technical and programme staff at organizations involved in the design implementation and scaling-up of anaemia prevention programmes and in nutrition actions for public health.

Logistics Support Analysis A Complete Guide - 2021 Edition

This book is a guide for Logistician's (military or civilian) in the execution of Movement Control and Distribution Management. - Provides examples of procedures and guidance utilized by our armed forces operating in Iraq to date, as well as being reviewed as emerging doctrine for the future. - Presents information for staff management that incorporates manual and automated procedures to monitor and track movement and commodities on today's modern battlefields. - Provides a process to utilize data from different automation systems, which do not talk to one another, as well as incorporates manual procedures to develop a system to monitor and track movement and commodities on today's modern battlefields. By doing this, we have provided the commander with a focused staff battle rhythm that works. Due to the Army Transformation and Spiral Development, there is a lack of documentation on just how to interpret and implement the new concepts and automation applications, and synchronize their usage and development. Many of the ideas and process in this book have not advanced beyond the conjectural level. The work covered is an initial effort to make operational these new ideas and procedures and provide them as training in a classroom and wartime environment. The uniqueness of the logistical mission and the technology of these services, this book may be guided towards a rather select audience. But due to the tactics and methods being used by our enemies in the field, it is important to understand that at all levels, the ability to have visibility and command and control of movement within our battle space is essential.
