The Wedding Contract

After I get the witch at the front desk to hand me my room key, I head for the shower. I was supposed to shoot my best friend's wedding alone, and I couldn't wait to escape New York and Nick Ferro. Yeah, he's beautiful, sexy, and completely charming, but he's stealing my clients. He's done so much damage that I'm going to be lucky if I can keep my studio open for a couple of weeks. This wedding means everything to me, and I refuse to let a spoiled brat with a shiny new MBA put me out of business. Screw that. But then I find myself wearing nothing but a smile when the person I hate most walks through the hotel room door. Nick Ferro. Two adversaries, shooting one wedding and sharing one room for one week. What could possibly go wrong?

The Wedding Contract

A practical agreement... An indisputable desire!

The Wedding Contract

Before her second marriage, Patricia Cotter, the widowed Lady of Pruett, signed a contract agreeing to the following: 1. She would never look at her husband's face. 2. She would never remove the sheets covering the mirrors. 3. She would never ask her husband about his past. In return for doing these things, she will have a secure place for her unborn child and her worries will be over. She has nothing to lose by agreeing to her husband's terms. Yes, she's heard the rumors about Mr. Stephen Bachman. He was said to have killed his first wife, though there is no proof condemning him of the crime. He is aloof and never leaves his manor. He is practically a prisoner in his own home. But as she gets to know him, she begins to believe her husband isn't the beast everyone's made him out to be. There just might be a gentleman worth loving beneath his hard exterior. The question is, can she get him to let go of the past so he can open himself up to the possibility of a fairytale romance?

The Marriage Contract

An exploration of the possibilities of hypertext fiction as art form and entertainment

Innocent's Desert Wedding Contract

First published in Germany in 1929, The End and the Beginning is a lively personal memoir of a vanished world and of a rebellious, high-spirited young woman's struggle to achieve independence. Born in 1883 into a distinguished and wealthy aristocratic family of the old Austro-Hungarian Empire, Hermynia Zur Muhlen spent much of her childhood travelling in Europe and North Africa with her diplomat father. After five years on her German husband's estate in czarist Russia she broke with both her family and her husband and set out on a precarious career as a professional writer committed to socialism. Besides translating many leading contemporary authors, notably Upton Sinclair, into German, she herself published an impressive number of politically engaged novels, detective stories, short stories, and children's fairy tales. Because of her outspoken opposition to National Socialism, she had to flee her native Austria in 1938 and seek refuge in England, where she died, virtually penniless, in 1951. This revised and corrected translation of Zur Muhlen's memoir - with extensive notes and an essay on the author by Lionel Gossman - will appeal especially to readers interested in women's history, the Central European aristocratic world that came to an end with the First World War, and the culture and politics of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

Untamed

Few of us have been spared the agonies of intimate relationships. They come in many shapes: loving a man or a woman who will not commit to us, being heartbroken when we're abandoned by a lover, engaging in Sisyphean internet searches, coming back lonely from bars, parties, or blind dates, feeling bored in a relationship that is so much less than we had envisaged - these are only some of the ways in which the search for love is a difficult and often painful experience. Despite the widespread and almost collective character of these experiences, our culture insists they are the result of faulty or insufficiently mature psyches. For many, the Freudian idea that the family designs the pattern of an individual's erotic career has been the main explanation for why and how we fail to find or sustain love. Psychoanalysis and popular psychology have succeeded spectacularly in convincing us that individuals bear responsibility for the misery of their romantic and erotic lives. The purpose of this book is to change our way of thinking about what is wrong in modern relationships. The problem is not dysfunctional childhoods or insufficiently self-aware psyches, but rather the institutional forces shaping how we love. The argument of this book is that the modern romantic experience is shaped by a fundamental transformation in the ecology and architecture of romantic choice. The samples from which men and women choose a partner, the modes of evaluating prospective partners, the very importance of choice and autonomy and what people imagine to be the spectrum of their choices: all these aspects of choice have transformed the very core of the will, how we want a partner, the sense of worth bestowed by relationships, and the organization of desire. This book does to love what Marx did to commodities: it shows that it is shaped by social relations and institutions and that it circulates in a marketplace of unequal actors.

Life After Life

This is the book that made its author Henry George suddenly famous. From the year 1879 to the present the doctrines of 'Progress and Poverty' have been familiar to all who are interested in social problems. The book has been read by many to whom Political Economy is still 'the dismal science', and it has been circulated in cheap editions by the thousand among the classes to which it holds out such an alluring prospect. 'Progress and Poverty' has become a classic in labor literature. Its doctrines have been accepted not only by many who see in them a means of personal rescue from distress and want, but by many others who are convinced by the reasoning of the author. Clergymen, in the Catholic as well as in the Protestant church, have become Mr. George's disciples, and business and professional men have gladly sat at his feet.

Bridging the fields of conservation, art history, and museum curating, this volume contains the principal papers from an international symposium titled "Historical Painting Techniques, Materials, and Studio Practice" at the University of Leiden in Amsterdam, Netherlands, from June 26 to 29, 1995. The symposium—designed for art historians, conservators, conservation scientists, and museum curators worldwide—was organized by the Department of Art History at the University of Leiden and the Art History Department of the Central Research Laboratory for Objects of Art and Science in Amsterdam. Twenty-five contributors representing museums and conservation institutions throughout the world provide recent research on historical painting techniques, including wall painting and polychrome sculpture. Topics cover the latest art historical research and scientific analyses of original techniques and materials, as well as historical sources, such as medieval treatises and descriptions of painting techniques in historical literature. Chapters include the painting methods of Rembrandt and Vermeer, Dutch 17th-century landscape painting, wall paintings in English churches, Chinese paintings on paper and canvas, and Tibetan thangkas. Color plates and black-and-white photographs illustrate works from the Middle Ages to the 20th century.

The End of Books--or Books Without End?

Of all the writing that emerged from the existentialist movement, Simone de Beauvoir's groundbreaking study of women will probably have the most extensive and enduring impact. It is at once a work of anthropology and sociology, of biology and psychoanalysis, from the pen of a writer and novelist of penetrating imaginative power. THE SECOND SEX stands, five decades after its first appearance, as the first landmark in the modern feminist upsurge that has transformed perceptions of the social relationship of man and womankind in our time

The End and the Beginning

Why Love Hurts

'I don't think anyone, apart from Don Bradman, is in the same class as Sachin Tendulkar.' -Shane Warne This is cricket icon, Sachin Tendulkar's life story in his own words - his journey from a small boy with dreams to becoming a cricket god. His amazing story has now been turned into a major film, A Billion Dreams, in which he stars. The greatest run-scorer in the history of cricket, Sachin Tendulkar retired in 2013 after an astonishing 24 years at the top. The most celebrated Indian cricketer of all time, he received the Bharat Ratna Award - India's highest civilian honour - on the day of his retirement. Now Sachin Tendulkar tells his own remarkable story - from his first Test cap at the age of 16 to his 100th international century and the emotional final farewell that brought his country to a standstill. When a boisterous Mumbai youngster's excess energies were channelled into cricket, the result was record-breaking schoolboy batting exploits that launched the career of a cricketing phenomenon. Before long Sachin Tendulkar was the cornerstone of India's batting line-up, his every move watched by a cricket-mad nation's devoted followers. Never has a cricketer been burdened with so many expectations; never has a cricketer performed at such a high level for so long and with such style - scoring more runs and making more centuries than any other player, in both Tests and one-day games. And perhaps only one cricketer could have brought together a shocked nation by defiantly scoring a Test century shortly after terrorist attacks rocked Mumbai. His many achievements with India include winning the World Cup and topping the world Test rankings. Yet he has also known his fair share of frustration and failure - from injuries and early World Cup exits to stinging criticism from the press, especially during his unhappy tenure as captain. Despite his celebrity status, Sachin Tendulkar has always remained a very private man, devoted to his family and his country. Now, for the first time, he provides a fascinating insight into his personal life and gives a frank and revealing account of a sporting life like no other.

The Mental Capacity Act 2005 provides a statutory framework for people who lack the capacity to make decisions for themselves, or for people who want to make provision for a time when they will be unable to make their own decisions. This code of practice, which has statutory force, provides information and guidance about how the Act should work in practice. It explains the principles behind the Act, defines when someone is incapable of making their own decisions and explains what is meant by acting in someone's best interests. It describes the role of the new Court of Protection and the role of Independent Mental Capacity Advocates and sets out the role of the Public Guardian. It also covers medical treatment and the way disputes can be resolved.

"Sean Ferro is my addiction. I can't tell him no, no matter what he asks for, and I know there are so many dark questions behind those blue eyes, so many things he wants me to do with him. When I watch him go down on one knee, with his sexy body covered in sand, and hold up a glittering ring, I can barely stand. It looks like he's going to propose, and I know exactly what I'm going to say."--Page 4 of cover.

Letters & Journal of W. Stanley Jevons

Purity and Danger is acknowledged as a modern masterpiece of anthropology. It is widely cited in non-anthropological works and gave rise to a body of application, rebuttal and development within anthropology. In 1995 the book was included among the Times Literary Supplement's hundred most influential non-fiction works since WWII. Incorporating the philosophy of religion and science and a generally holistic approach to classification, Douglas demonstrates the relevance of anthropological enquiries to an audience outside her immediate academic circle. She offers an approach to understanding rules of purity by examining what is considered unclean in various cultures. She sheds light on the symbolism of what is considered clean and dirty in relation to order in secular and religious, modern and primitive life.

My Best Friend's Brother

My best friend's brother has always been a pain. He's bossy, full of himself, and demanding. I'd rather be anywhere but in a room with him. But for Doug, I'll do just about anything, Even if that means interviewing the new mayor, And helping him with the annual Fourth of July celebration. Long hours of working together make me see Gavin in a new light, And soon I'm questioning everything I've ever thought about him. Is it that I really can't stand him? Or can I not stand how he makes me feel when I'm around him? All I know for sure is there will definitely be fireworks this Fourth of July. My Brother's Best Friend is a full-length romance novel all wrapped up with a beautiful and sweet HEA sure to make your heart soar! This book is part of the Holiday Romances series but stands alone. Books do not have to be read in order.

My Brother's Best Friend

During the summer, Marlon and Sharon are selected to attend a special athletics camp called Track Talent. Marlon's success quickly leads him to fame around the camp, however, he ends up ditching his best friend Sharon for a new crew. When Marlon finds himself in over his head, he soon discovers the value of a true friend.

Closer Than a Brother

"That's right. I was in love with my bully." Having a best friend with a cruel older brother is a recipe for disaster. It was worse for Hope who's best friend, Heather, had twin demons as brothers who restlessly bullied them, especially her when she visits their house. Fast forward to a few years, Hope finds herself in a summer where the twins come home from college. She can no longer run, especially when her friend Heather is the one visiting this time with her brothers in tow. Will Hope ever reconcile with her bullies? Or will she be stuck harboring feelings for one of them? SAMPLE 1: Still standing under the lukewarm water I couldn't help but think back to what I heard... Nathan is in love with some girl. I know he never said the word 'love' but I could tell by his tone that's what he meant. My chest went tight and started to hurt, my eyes filled up with tears blurring my vision. Why did the thought of him being with someone else hurt so much? It's not like he has ever led me on or showed me any interest (in a romantic way) in the past. I never really told him anything to indicate that either. But even when.... No I can't... I felt the tears start to fall from my eyes. I slouched down to the floor of the shower until I was effectively sat down and hugging my legs to my chest. Before I knew it I was crying my soul out. I felt physically sick to my stomach, my chest felt like someone was sat on it. I felt more depressed than any other time in my life and nothing was going to fix it. I was stupid really.... That's right I was in love with my bully. SAMPLE 2: "How long have you been crushing on your little sister's best friend?" Matt asked his voice full of amusement. I looked away "I.. I haven't been" I stutter out. "Really?" Heather asked, trying not to laugh. The two looked at each other and laugh. "You are such a bad liar." Matt laughs. "I'm not." "So is this a recent thing or is this an old thing?" Heather teased. "No Hev, it has to be recent right Nate?" Matt quickly said asking for me. I don't answer, still looking away. "Right Nate?" Matt asks again, this time in a more serious tone. I coughed but didn't say anything still. Heather's mouth dropped open but quickly closed it again as if realizing something. "Longer?" she almost whispers. I slowly turned to them and purse my lips. "Oh my god... Seriously man?" Matt asked shocked. "How long has it been?" Dean asks, making me jump. "Since I first saw her" is all I say.

My Best Friend's Brother

 A Young Adult Sweet Romance   The Lakeland Boys 3  Sixteen year-old Marla Turner had been in love with Tank Gunderson her entire life. He had always been her hero. Unfortunately, to him, she would never be more than his best friend's little sister. Tank Gunderson knew one thing for sure in his messed up life. It didn't matter that she lit up his world. All that mattered was that Marla Turner was as far out of bounds as a girl could get.

My Brother's Best Friend

I can't date Dean Madden. He's a bad boy and my older brother's best friend. So what if I pretended he was my fake boyfriend in high school? That was a long time ago, and he never has to know. We're both grown up now. It's never going to happen. Until one hot weekend when everything happens. Now Dean has made a bet with me: four weeks of dating, and whoever gets dumped first loses. In order to win, I just have to date him. And the more dates we go on, the more I see the things Dean hides from the rest of the world. This might be crazy. It might make my brother mad. It might not be forever, no matter how much I want it to be. And it might be the wildest four weeks of my life. NOTE: This book was previously published under the title Bad Boyfriend.

My Best Friend's Sister

Did you know brothers make the best friends? Well they do! Watch as this brother and sister play and grow together, to become life long friends.

How to Date Your Brother's Best Friend

We used to call ourselves The Three Musketeers. I know it's cliché, but we were only kids. They usually took turns being in charge, which was fine with me. I was just happy to go along with them. After all, I thought I was the luckiest little girl in the whole world. Most of my classmates only had one best friend, but I had two: my best friend Izzy and her twin brother. Back then, I hoped things would never change, but that's the problem with more. Once I saw a glimpse of it, it was impossible to stop wanting it. Especially when it came to Shane. This standalone best friend romance has no cheating, no cliffhangers, and is intended for a mature audience.
