The Serpent and the Rose: The Immaculate Conception and Hispanic Poetry in the Late Medieval Period

Cuarta de Forros Tan necesario como único e imprescindible, es el minucioso trabajo realizado por el contratenor Héctor Sosa. Su valiosa y armoniosa incursión al canto, es sin lugar a dudas destacada, y ya se tiene en la memoria musical de México —ganado por derecho propio—, el registro de su voz que calificó el poeta Eduardo Lizalde de: “peculiar tesitura”. A ello agreguemos los más de veinte años dedicados a la docencia, a la enseñanza del canto, con clara pasión por compartir todo lo aprendido por él, durante las cuatro décadas que suman su invaluable y grata vocación. Héctor Sosa, es el artista que, bien podría calificarse de incansable, mas, haciendo uso de mi libre expresión, me permito recordar al francés Michel Foucault, cuando en una entrevista esboza la posibilidad de considerar “la vida como una obra de arte”. En mi opinión no es desatinado pensarlo, pues, la multiplicidad de actividades realizadas por un hombre a lo largo de su vida artística, semejan —sin que hasta ahora se le considere así— una obra de arte. Destaco lo anterior, no sólo por lo ya mencionado, advierto al lector de estas palabras, que el libro ahora en sus manos es además de una legítima preocupación por la carrera del contratenor en México, un hallazgo literario, compuesto —de cierto modo—, por la historia cántica de los contratenores, seguida muy puntualmente por el narrador Héctor Sosa, que se involucra, no únicamente como escritor, lo hace también como personaje, al relatarnos cuáles fueron y cómo fueron los obstáculos enfrentados por él, para seguir el camino de su vocación. Es pues, este libro, Las vicisitudes del contratenor en México, una pasión artística, la entrega absoluta y la enseñanza del canto de un hombre que hoy nos alborozca con una sencilla, y a un tiempo, ágil prosa, al rememorar —aunque no se haya pensado así—, la biografía musical de los contratenores en México. Finalizo, teniendo presente ciertas palabras otorgadas por Eduardo Lizalde, al autor que, digo sin temor a equivocarme, posee también la palabra escrita: “usted es el único que sabe lo que dice cuando canta”. Es esta una obra fulgurante. Iztapalapa, junio de 2022 Esteban Ascencio.

Las vicisitudes del contratenor en México.

Curiositas nihil recusat es un conjunto de estudios dedicados a Isabel Moreno Ferrero, catedrática de Filología Latina en la Universidad de Salamanca. El título procede de la Historia Augusta, obra singular de la literatura latina que fue el objeto de la tesis doctoral de Isabel Moreno. En la Vida de Aureliano se encuentra esta fórmula, tan propia del mundo clásico, donde lo mejor del helenismo se alía con la contundencia romana: «La curiosidad intelectual no descarta ningún tema». A la amplitud de miras de esta sentencia, como si fuera un emblema, se han acogido unos cuantos amigos, compañeros, discípulos y colegas de universidades españolas y extranjeras para tratar asuntos de una atractiva diversidad: filologías griega, latina y románica, lingüística indoeuropea, historia y derecho romano, todos en la órbita de lo clásico.

The Object of the Atlantic is a wide-ranging study of the transition from a concern with sovereignty to a concern with things in Iberian Atlantic literature and art produced between 1868 and 1968. Rachel Price uncovers the surprising ways that concrete aesthetics from Cuba, Brazil, and Spain drew not only on global forms of constructivism but also on a history of empire, slavery, and media technologies from the Atlantic world. Analyzing Jose Marti's notebooks, Joaquim de Sousa Andrade's poetry, Ramiro de Maeztu's essays on things and on slavery, 1920s Cuban literature on economic restructuring, Ferreira Gullar's theory of the "non-object," and neoconcrete art, Price shows that the turn to objects—and from these to new media networks—was rooted in the very philosophies of history that helped form the Atlantic world itself.

<http://dx.doi.org/10.12946/gplh6><http://www.epubli.de/shop/buch/53894>"The spatiotemporal conjunction is a fundamental aspect of the juridical reflection on the historicity of law. Despite the fact that it seems to represent an issue directly connected with the question of where legal history is heading today, it still has not been the object of a focused inquiry. Against this background, the book's proposal consists in rethinking key confluences related to this problem in order to provide coordinates for a collective understanding and dialogue. The aim of this volume, however, is not to offer abstract methodological considerations, but rather to rely both on concrete studies, out of which a reflection on this conjunction emerges, as well as on the reconstruction of certain research lines featuring a spatiotemporal component. This analytical approach makes a contribution by providing some suggestions for the employment of space and time as coordinates for legal history. Indeed, contrary to those historiographical attitudes reflecting a monistic conception of space and time (as well as a Eurocentric approach), the book emphasises the need for a delocalized global perspective. In general terms, the essays collected in this book intend to take into account the multiplicity of the spatiotemporal confines, the flexibility of those instruments that serve to create chronologies and scenarios, as well as certain processes of adaptation of law to different times and into different spaces. The spatiotemporal dynamism enables historians not only to detect new perspectives and dimensions in foregone themes, but also to achieve new and compelling interpretations of legal history. As far as the relationship between space and law is concerned, the book analyses experiences in which space operates as a determining factor of law, e.g. in terms of a field of action for law. Moreover, it outlines the attempted scales of spatiality in order to develop legal historical research. With reference to the connection between time and law, the volume sketches the possibility of considering the factor of time, not just as a descriptive tool, but as an ascriptive moment (quasi an inner feature) of a legal problem, thus making it possible to appreciate the synchronic aspects of the 'juridical experience'. As a whole, the volume aims to present spatiotemporality as a challenge for legal history. Indeed, reassessing the value of the spatiotemporal coordinates for legal history implies thinking through both the thematic and methodological boundaries of the discipline."

The Object of the Atlantic

From the fifteenth century to the beginning of the nineteenth century, devotional music played a fundamental role in the Iberian world. Songs in the vernacular, usually referred to by the generic name of 'villancico', but including forms as varied as madrigals, ensaladas, tonos, cantatas or even oratorios, were regularly performed at many religious feasts in major churches, royal and private chapels, convents and in monasteries. These compositions appear to have progressively fulfilled or supplemented the role occupied by the Latin motet in other countries and, as they were often composed anew for each celebration, the surviving sources vastly outnumber those of Latin compositions; they can be counted in tens of thousands. The close relationship with secular genres, both musical, literary and performative, turned these compositions into a major vehicle for dissemination of vernacular styles throughout the Iberian world. This model of musical production was also cultivated in Portugal and rapidly exported to the Spanish and Portuguese colonies in America and Asia. In many cases, the villancico repertory represents the oldest surviving source of music produced in these regions, thus affording it a primary role in the construction of national identities. The sixteen essays in this volume explore the development of devotional music in the Iberian world in this period, providing the first broad-based survey of this important genre.

What were the methods and educational philosophies of music teachers in the Middle Ages and the Renaissance? What did students study? What were the motivations of teacher and student? Contributors to this volume address these topics and other -- including gender, social status, and the role of the Church -- to better understand the identities of music teachers and students from 650 to 1650 in Western Europe. This volume provides an expansive view of the beginnings of music pedagogy, and shows how the act of learning was embedded in the broader context of the early Western art music tradition.

Spatial and Temporal Dimensions for Legal History

«Este libro es un ejercicio sobre la historia de las ideas contemporáneas. Puede considerarse una toma panorámica, de derecha a izquierda, de un paisaje intelectual determinado. Los pensadores y los escritores a los que observa pertenecen a un mundo político en el que las categorías de derecha, centro e izquierda conservan aún visiblemente su significado, aun cuando las localizaciones y los límites de cada uno distan mucho de estar fijados. Se trata del espectro al que alude el título.» En este magistral nuevo estudio Perry Anderson recorre y analiza las trayectorias de un variado conjunto de intelectuales que, desde la derecha hasta la izquierda, han tenido un impacto duradero en la esfera pública y el mundo de las ideas. Así, en la primera parte, dedicada al pensamiento político, analiza la trayectoria de seis grandes pensadores conservadores (M. Oakeshott, C. Schmitt, L. Strauss, F. von Hayek, F. Mount y T. Garton Ash); en la segunda parte, profundiza en el pensamiento de tres filósofos políticos fundamentales en el cambio de siglo (J. Rawls, J. Habermas y N. Bobbio), de ideología de centro-izquierda o izquierda moderada; por último, la tercera parte está dedicada al campo de la historia, en cuanto registro del pasado, desde el terreno –ya claro– de la izquierda (examinando las figuras de E. Thompson, R. Brenner, E. Hobsbawm, S. Timpanazo, G. Therborn y G. García Márquez). El volumen finaliza con dos apéndices dedicados a la London Review of Books y a la vivencia de J. C. O'G. Anderson, padre del autor, en la China republicana.

Appian of Alexandria lived in the early-to-mid second century AD, a time when the pax Romana flourished. His Roman History traced, through a series of ethnographic histories, the growth of Roman power throughout Italy and the Mediterranean World. But Appian also told the story of the civil wars which beset Rome from the time of Tiberius Gracchus to the death of Sextus Pompeius Magnus. The standing of his work in modern times is paradoxical. Consigned to the third rank by nineteenth-century historiographers, and poorly served by translators, Appian's Roman History profoundly shapes our knowledge of Republican Rome, its empire and its internal politics. We need to know him better. This collection of 15 new papers from a distinguished international team studies both what Appian had to say and how he said it. The papers engage in a dialogue about the value of Appian's text as a source of history, the relationship between that history and his own times, and the impact on his narrative of the author's own opinions - most notably that Rome enjoyed divinely-ordained good fortune. Some authors demonstrate that Appian's text (and even his mistakes) can yield significant new information, others re-open the question of Appian's use of source material in the light of recent studies showing him to be far more than a transmitter of other people's work.

Esteemed moral philosopher James Rachels here collects fifteen essays, some classic and others extensively revised, on the nature and limits of moral reasoning. Rachels argues that, rather than simply expressing societal conventions, moral philosophy can subvert received opinion and replace it with something better. Combining a concern for ethical theory with a discussion of practical moral issues such as euthanasia, the rights of animals, privacy, and affirmative action. Can Ethics Provide Answers is an excellent collection for students, scholars, and anyone concerned with the degree to which our principles can guide our policies.

The existence of World Literature depends on specific processes, institutions, and actors involved in the global circulation of literary works. The contributions of this volume aim to pay attention to these multiple material dimensions of Latin American 20th and 21st century literatures. From perspectives informed by materialism, sociology, book studies, and digital humanities, the articles of this volume analyze the role of publishing houses, politics of translation, mediators and gatekeepers, allowing insights into the processes that enable books to cross borders and to be transformed into globally circulating commodities. The book focusses both on material (re)sources of literary archives, key actors in literary and cultural markets, prizes and book fairs, as well as on recent dimension of the digital age. Statements of some of the leading representatives of the global publishing world complement these analyses of the operations of selection and aggregation of value to literary texts.

On the occasion of the celebrations of the bicentennial anniversary of Chile, and the centennial anniversary of the National Museum of Fine Arts, constructed in 1910 as part of the festivities of the Independence centennial, the MNBA planned a series of exhibitions under the title of Centenario. This beautifully edited recompilation volume comprises the history of the museum MNBA with a descriptive and illustrated catalogue of the 250 most important pieces of its patrimonial collection exhibited in the 7 modules that comprised the program Centenario. Milan Ivelic, director of the MNBA explains: "The objective of this publication is to articulate and organize the symbolic imaginaries that are part of the holdings of the Collection of Chilean Art of the MNBA. What this publication is proposing is the organization in a transversal way of the art pieces selected, without following a linear chronology, thus constructing, in a certain way, a new museographic script. The art pieces have been divided into 7 modules based on a broad criteria that respond to their approximation in languages, topic similarities and shared strategic processes for their elaboration, conceptualizing theory and analysis of the artistic practices, without omitting their own historical context"--P.20. The contents of the catalogue follow the 7 main topic modules of the exhibitions. Major referential work illustrated with full-page color plates.
