This is a fac simile edition of Bloomfield's An Introduction to the Study of Language (New York 1914), with an introductory article by Joseph S. Kess. Leonard Bloomfield (1887-1949) was responsible for two classic textbooks in the field of linguistics. The earlier, reproduced here, shows some striking differences to his later views, reflecting much of the then-current thinking on language matters. As such, it represents not only an interesting commentary on the theoretical development of an extremely influential linguist, but more importantly, it is a telling document in the evolving history of the discipline and a rich source for the (psycho)linguist interested in how and why we got from where we were to where we are.

The Elliott Homestead

KEYNOTE: This book provides a savvy survey of the latest work by designers, craftspeople, and architects of African descent around the world. Artists and designers of African ancestry-many in Africa but also others throughout Europe, the Americas, and the Far East- are working in a wide array of mediums: fashion, architecture, non-traditional crafts, design, fine art, and photography. Authors Lowery Stokes Sims and Leslie King-Hammond, together with six contributors, challenge presumptions of what constitutes an 'African' style or aesthetic, and demonstrate the power and expressive potential of materials, textures and forms. Work by well-known artists such as Yinka Shonibare, MBE and architects including David Adjaye appear alongside those of lesser-known but equally exciting designers whose garments, carpets, baskets, ceramics, furniture, body arts, wall painting, photographs and sculpture blur the distinction between art and craft. The result is an enormously diverse display of young and established talent, and a wide-ranging survey of contemporary African art and design. AUTHOR: LOWERY STOKES SIMS is Director and Organizing Curator of the Global Africa Project and the Charles Bronfman International Curator at the Museum of Arts and Design in New York City. She has published extensively on African, Latino, Native and Asian American Artists. She is a contributor to Fritz Scholder: Indian/ Not Indian (Prestel). LESLIE KING-HAMMOND is the founding director of the Center for Race and Culture and the Maryland Institute College of Art. A noted scholar, teacher, and curator, King-Hammond has directed numerous exhibitions on African-American art and artists. 200 colour illustrations

WAMA Edge To Edge Art Coloring Book

This isn't your typical coloring book. In fact, it's a book of 50 black-and-white fine art prints you can frame, as-is. (Each page is printed on just one side.) OR... you can color them, as much or as little as you like. These are hand-drawn, block-like designs. Large blocks, small blocks, and super-tiny blocks. They may remind you of ancient monuments in Central America, Scotland's Skara Brae, Crete's Palas of Knossos, or even England's Stonehenge. These block-based designs aren't perfect or tidy. They weren't drawn with a ruler or on a tablet. In fact, they're decidedly organic. And that may be their greatest appeal. They're authentic art. If you're looking for something different in art and coloring books, you may have found it.

At the end of the nineteenth century, German artist and professor Anton Seder was appointed founding director of Strasbourgs College of Decorative Arts. Seder (1850-1916) developed the school as an influential artistic force in the Alsace-Lorraine region, creating work that bridged French and German artistic styles and contributed to the development of Art Nouveau. Among Seder's work from this time is Die Pflanze in Kunst und Gewerbe (The plant in art and trade), two volumes of approximately two hundred images, stunning in their artistry and graceful depiction of nature. One hundred thirty years after its publication, this visual tour of the world's plants (and a few animals, if you look closely) represents some of the most vibrant work of the era. The illustrations in this colouring book come from a copy of Die Pflanze held in the collections of the British Library. One page at the back of the colouring book has been left blank, so that you can decoratively document the plant life that flourishes near you. Images
