Summary of My View of Liberal Education

Education Is Tied to Freedom

To Want To Exclude a Range of Ideas from the Campus because Their Scene Is Threatening to a Set of Commitments or Even Our Set of Identities of some People on Campuses Such that Then We Want To Characterize the Entire Campus as a Kind of Safe Space in Which People Will Not Feel under Attack for Certain Kinds of Views and I Think that Has To Be Resisted that Universities Are Precisely Places Where We Talk about Controversial and Difficult Ideas That Sometimes Are in Fact Going To Be Very Challenging to People's Fundamental Commitments Including Their Sense of Identity and We Want that Space To Occur on Campus at the Same Time I Think We Need To Be Open to the Idea and I Think It's Attractive in Fact To Have both Literal As Well as Metaphorical Spaces on Campus Where

I Think We Need To Be Open to the Idea and I Think It's Attractive in Fact To Have both Literal As Well as Metaphorical Spaces on Campus Where People Can Feel like They Can Gather Together in Solidarity with Like-Minded Individuals that There Is Emotional Value in that There's Intellectual Value and Social Value and and Universities Should Have Spaces in Which that's Possible and I Don't Think those Two Things Are Antithetical to One another the End of Day It'D all Be Possible To Understand the University Is Being an Extremely Inclusive Place Where You'Re Trying To Bring As Many People into It as Possible

People Can Feel like They Can Gather Together in Solidarity with Like-Minded Individuals that There Is Emotional Value in that There's Intellectual Value and Social Value and and Universities Should Should Have Spaces in Which that's Possible and I Don't Think those Two Things Are Antithetical to One another the End of Day It'D all Be Possible To Understand the University Is Being an Extremely Inclusive Place Where You'Re Trying To Bring As Many People into It as Possible in Order Talk about a Wide Range of Ideas They'Re Often Going To Be Difficult and Challenging the Brewing Disagree About Fundamentally

I Think that When I Came to College I Viewed It Purely as a Means to an End Rather than an End in Itself but I Realized Now that So Much of the Knowledge That We Gain Here Particularly in Liberal Arts Fields Has no Specific or Predictable Application because It Has an Infinity of Applications It Will Serve Me at Regardless of the Field That I Choose Instead of Choosing a Language or this Class or that One because It's the Next Big Thing When the Thing about Change Is that It's Unpredictable so I'D Like To Know How Can We Help Students Particularly Freshmen
